Parent Support Services
Society of BC

Are you someone who has:

- Good listening & interpersonal skills
- An interest in supporting parent/caregiver and child relationships
- Basic understanding of child development & parenting issues
- Willing to do some community outreach & development activities

Benefits of this training:

- Initial facilitator training provided along with continuing education opportunities
- Develop skills for career and personal growth
- Support families in your community
- Letter of reference upon request (minimum 1 year commitment)

We ask our volunteers to commit 3-5 hrs a week for a minimum of 1 year. This allows our facilitators to develop relationships with the support circle participants within the context of the circle.

What past participants say:

The trainers were very informed with an obvious wealth of experience coupled with a solid academic background that support the activities.

I was taught how to be a facilitator not a caregiver.

This workshop was inspirational, timely, to the point, energetic, friendly.

This training helped move my one-on-one counselling skills into a group environment.
