50 Years of Empowering Families

Join Parent Support Services Society of BC (PSS) as we celebrate 50 years of empowering families! PSS is a provincial non-profit on a mission to transform hurt-filled households into healthy homes.

Parent Support Services was founded in 1974, by Bill McFarland and the Vancouver Children's Aid Society. At the time, PSS was known as Parents in Crisis, a group created to end child abuse. Since then, PSS has become a cost-effective leader in providing families with the tools they need to prevent a crisis.

We support parents and caregivers to be the best they can be, through support groups, education/information workshops, advocacy and building community connections.

We work with caregivers who are raising a relative when parents can't – keeping these children out of foster care. PSS collaborates with Indigenous communities to develop unique programs. We offer programming in 8 different languages – Mandarin, Cantonese, Korean, Spanish, Punjabi, Arabic, Tagalog, and English.

As a sponsor of our 50th Anniversary Gala Fundraiser, your generosity will ensure that our vital programs, including Canada's first Kinship Care Help Line, can continue. Your donations will keep our programming barrier-free (providing childminding, transportation subsidies and healthy snacks).

We are proud to offer our transformational programs and services to families of all backgrounds, throughout BC, free of charge!

Helping us ultimately build healthy communities, one family at a time.
